

Culturally Responsive Practice – An Introduction Podcast

It is essential that health professionals are both clinically competent and culturally responsive in order to positively affect the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander individuals, families and communities. Indigenous Allied Health Australia, a national not for profit, member-based Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander allied health organisation, is pleased to provide participants with an introduction to ways of knowing, being and doing that can enhance their practice and ability to take culturally responsive action to building cultural safety.

This podcast will be based upon 'Cultural responsiveness in Action: An IAHA Framework' and introduce participants to 6 key capabilities that can lead to culturally safe and responsive practice.

The recording is of a webinar presented by ESSA on 2 November 2015.

Presented by Ms Donna Murray, CEO Indigenous Allied Health Australia

Donna Murray is a descendant of the Wiradjuri nation of the Murrumbidgee River and of the Wonnarua nation of the Hunter Valley (NSW) and the Chief Executive Officer of Indigenous Allied Health Australia (IAHA). Donna provides strong strategic leadership across the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and wider allied health sector and has extensive experience in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leadership and governance, management, education and community development. Having worked in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander affairs for over 25 years within government and community organisations at local, state and national levels, Donna has strong relationships and networks within Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health and related sectors.
